

Working After Retirement

More Details About Changes

A few weeks ago, we gave you a heads-up about the legislative working-after-retirement changes. Here are more details.

Changes Taking Effect July 1, 2017

Independent and Third-Party Contractors

Generally, retirees working as independent contractors or through a third party (like temp staffing agency) have all the basic working-after-retirement rules.

But... they are exempt if all three of the following criteria are true. They will still have the “no pre-arrangement” and waiting-period rules.

3rd party

1. Not returning to a position similar to one held before retirement
2. Position activities are not normally performed exclusively by employees
3. Services are on a limited-term* basis

statute does not define “limited-term”*

Independent contractor

1. Not returning to a position similar to one held before retirement
2. Position activities are not normally performed exclusively by employees
3. Position meets the IRS criteria for an independent contractor

Everything Else Stays the Same 7/1/17 – 12/31/17

- Still no prearrangements to return to work
- Still have a 60-day waiting period
- Retirees do not contribute
- Hardship exemption unchanged

Changes Taking Effect January 1, 2018

Highlights

- No more earnings limit
- No more exemptions
- Only two employer contribution rates
 - First $25,000 (regular statutory rate)
 - After first $25,000 (30%)
